FAA Budget and Funding Plan

Bob Kindlund - Newsletter Editor

We all know that the battle has begun for our right to fly and that the plan the FAA and administration has put forth is the enemy. A lot has been written in the aviation press about this issue and what GA might look like if this program passes Congress.

Rather than repeat all this information, what I would like to give you is links to it so you can read what is being proposed and some information regarding what you can do. For an idea of what things might be like here, I suggest reading Euro-fee Nightmares on page 83 of the April issue of AOPA Pilot.

What can I do?

1) Contact your congressional Representative and Senators in Washington. Educate them on the seriousness of this issue and the direct impact it will have on you, your family, your business, and your community.

- Write a letter detailing what you know of this issue and how it will impact your life. Do not assume that your congressional representatives even know about this issue so explain the matter in some detail. Chances are that if they have heard anything about this issue, it has been from the concerted and coordinated lobbying efforts of the Administration, DOT, FAA, and the airlines telling their one-sided version of the story.

- Call your Congressman and Senators at their offices in Washington and ask for them directly. Do not be bashful. They are sent there to serve the interests of their constituents and deserve to understand the issue and how it will impact the people back home in their district. If your Congressman or Senator is unavailable, ask for their Transportation Legislative Assistant or the person in their office who handles transportation- and aviation-related issues.
- Be informative, respectful and polite in all your correspondence and contact with congressional representatives and their staff. Explain the issue, express your personal concerns, and feel free to seek their active support of you and your community.

If you do not know who your congressional representatives are or how to contact them in Washington you can look them up on the web.

2) Tell other pilots, aircraft owners, and aviation enthusiasts about this issue and encourage them to get better educated and actively support your concerns. Refer them to this briefing paper or to the EAA website for more information. Share this information at EAA Chapter meetings and other pilot gatherings. Encourage others to get actively involved.

3) Support EAA and other general aviation organizations through your continued membership and donations. This is the number one issue facing our community and EAA is tirelessly working on Capitol Hill, independently and with other organizations, in a unified front to combat the highly coordinated attack by the airlines and the Administration on general aviation.

Why doesn't EAA just write a form letter for me to sign and send?

Form letters do not work. Congressional offices are bombarded daily with hundreds of letters on a myriad of issues of concern to their constituents, corporations and lobbying interests. Staffers can smell a form letter writing campaign a mile away and will dump all similar letters into a pile and respond with a single form letter of their own.

I have an open spot in my hangar. The Swift Hangar is at the end of RHV row Juliet in the gray concrete tilt-up building. It is a shared, well-lit hangar with concrete floors and a bathroom. One spot is available immediately and another opening will be coming up in about a month. The rent is cheaper than a T-hangar at $350/month and has much better lighting and workspace.

There is no substitute for a well-informed personal letter or phone call from a constituent in their home district. E-mail works but still gets less attention than a letter or telephone call.

Help us help you by writing your own letter in your own words. Feel free to use the facts and talking points outlined in this briefing paper to help frame and organize your thoughts, but please tell your own story in your own words. Ultimately, it is the impact of this issue on you that matters to us at EAA and to your congressional delegation.

Presidents Corner

Terri Gorman

Spring has arrived much earlier this year in California than in the past years. With the Spring-like weather, our Air Traffic Controllers are being kept very busy with the flight activities of the seven flight schools located at Reid Hillview Airport and our many licensed pilots who line up, in tandem, waiting to be cleared for departure. On one sunny weekend, we had five planes from EAA Chapter 62 departing for the Schellville Airport and looking at all the 'old birds and classics' on display.

The results of the 'Air Tour Rule' instituted by the FAA is, it will not affect any of our pilots flying the Young Eagles, so there is no set number of hours a pilot has to have to fly the Young Eagles and if you are piloting an RV9, Lancair or any other homebuilt or any GA aircraft, the Air Tour Rule has no affect on you.

Our first Young Eagle event is on Saturday, April 14th, so contact our new Young Eagle Coordinator, Hillary Harper at hillaryharper@yahoo.com and sign up. We will need pilots and ground crew. Allen Roark, our former Young Eagle Coordinator, spent several hours teaching a Youth Group comprised of both parents and children on how to build wing ribs, so with the expertise of Jeff West, a Young Eagle Pilot and Wing Rib Builder, everything should run very smoothly. Food is provided by our chapter and discounted fuel is provided to the Young Eagle pilots through the San Jose Fuel Company located at Reid Hillview Airport.

We will be flying out to Mather Airport to tour the TRACON Facility on Saturday, April 7th. We will meet inside Trajen Flight Services located near the tie down area at 11:45 AM. For security purposes, I need to have your driver's license numbers by Thursday, April 6th. Every attendee must be an American citizen and the tour is limited to 10 people.

With the lack of interest in the Swap Meet on Saturday, April 28th, I am canceling it. In its place, we will have a potluck/barbeque and flights at the Victory Hangar. This event will take place at a later time. Check your May Newsletter for more information.

If your mailing address label is in red, your membership has expired. Please renew online at www.eaa62.org or send a check to our Membership Chairman, Jon Garliepp. Jon's address is in the upper, left hand corner of your newsletter.

I'll see you all at the meeting,

Chapter 62 Fly-Outs

Terri Gorman, Flight Leader

Eleven EAA members flew into Schellville Airport to tour the hangars full of antiques and classics and to share a barbeque with the Schellville EAA Chapter. Departing Palo Alto in their Grumman Tiger were Wolfgang and Gudrun Polak; from Reid Hillview Airport, we had Gary Niva flying solo in his Cessna 170; Ralph Reichhold and Rich Moriarty in their shared Cavalier, built by Ralph and his friend, George. Communicating on 122.75 with Rich and Ralph were Bob and I in our Piper Warrior. Ed Rosiak and Boyd Blue in Boyd's Glastar that he built departed from Frasier Lake. Five EAA Chapter 119 members from Watsonville flew in and joined us.

The runway at Schellville was a little intimidating from a distance. It looked like we were landing on an aircraft carrier, as the runway was 1540' X 44' and with a narrow pond on one side of the runway. Schellville Airport is 'the home of the tail draggers' and it comes alive on the second weekend of each month when the hangar doors are opened for visitors to view the experimental, vintage, antique and homebuilt aircraft.

A good time was had by everyone. Come out and join us on our April fly out to Mather Airport. If you don't have a plane, we will find you a pilot with a spare seat.

Check out our website at www.eaa62.org for pictures of our fly in to Schellville. Wolfgang Polak, our Webmaster, took the pictures.

Air Academy Candidates

Terri Gorman

Time is running out. We have two applications for two boys for the Air Academy at Oshkosh this year. We would like to send a boy and a girl, but I guess teenager girls are more interested in boys than in airplanes, so this year, we have two young men, one from Fremont High School and one from Homestead High School who have applied. If you know anyone who would be interested in attending the Air Academy at Oshkosh this year, please download the application from our website and contact Ron Carmichael, Brian Dal Porto, Wolfgang Polak or myself. We are the Air Academy Coordinators. We will be meeting on April 4th to review the applications.

Membership Corner

Jon Garliepp
